How does county lines impact on vulnerable adults in the Dorset Council area?

Risk factors identified:

- Opiate users
- Cuckooed addresses
- Pharmacies
- Temporary properties & HMOs
- Troubled families
- Adults with a learning disability
- Railway stations

Objective: to identify vulnerable locations and inform people who are working within those communities to recognise and spot potential victims

Opiate users in treatment

Pharmacies providing needle exchange

Pharmacies providing supervised consumption

Cuckooed addresses with railway stations

Cuckooed addresses with pharmacies

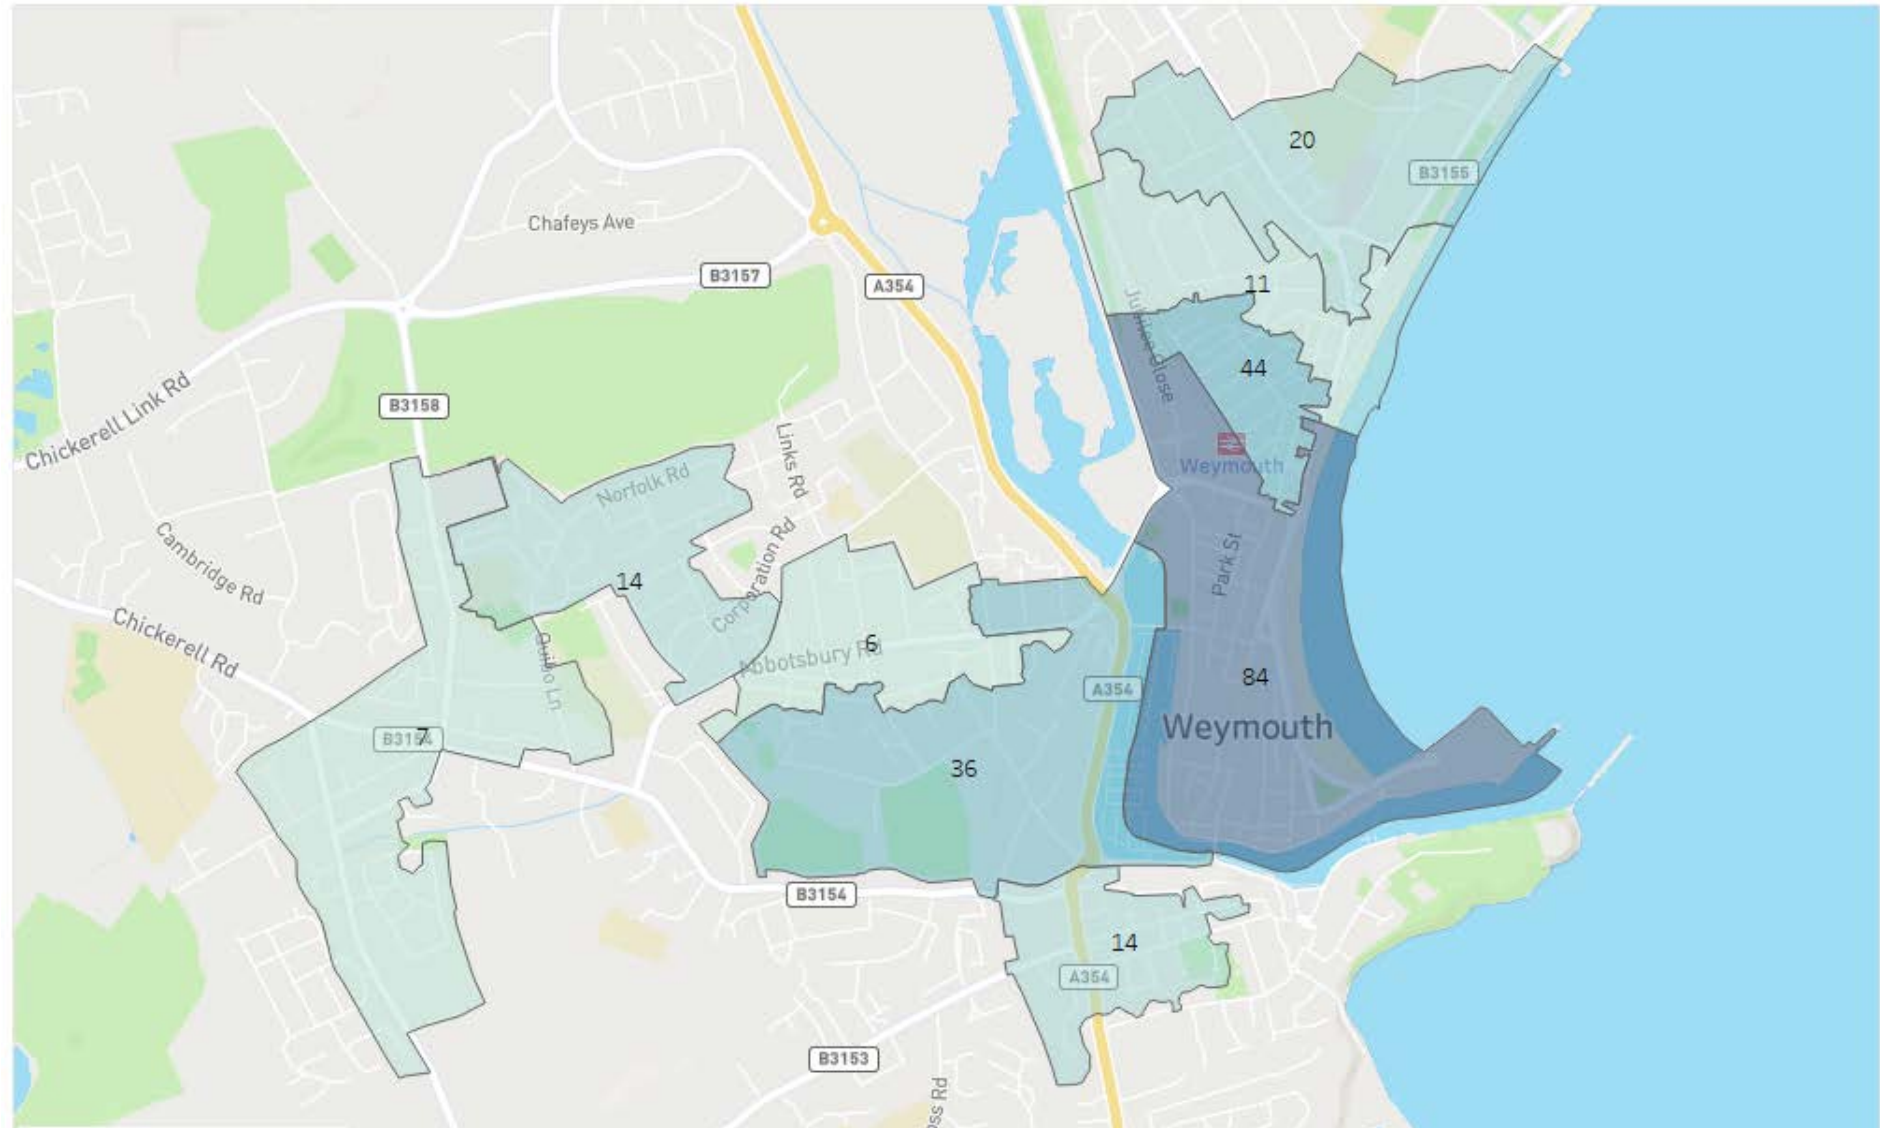

Dorset Families Matter 3+ criteria

Adults with learning disabilities

Temporary Properties

Location of people in treatment for opiate use (by LSOA) 2018-19

(LSOAs with less than 6 have been suppressed - unmet treatment need for opiates and crack cocaine is 43.7%)

How important are the pharmacies?

Cuckoo victims

People in substance misuse
treatment

82%

Key Findings

- A high proportion of victims are likely to be known to substance misuse services and many are in contact with other professionals.
- Exploitation of adults for county lines exists in all of the main towns across the Dorset Council area.
- Adults are at risk if they live within walking distance of a main train station.

Resulting Actions

1. Use the risk matrix to focus county lines awareness to specific groups and organisations that come into contact with vulnerable adults.
2. Conduct a deep dive to ascertain why the Bridport area appears to be an outlier.
3. Work closely with substance misuse keyworkers to identify any other clients who might be victims of cuckooing.
